How to read this compilation

- The information contained here was prepared as a reference list for a virtual meeting held by the Doctoral Convention of Heidelberg University on March 7, 2022.
- The information landscape is changing constantly and rapidly – therefore we are providing links to insightful websites rather than static summaries of information in order to extend the validity and value of the information included.
- We apologize for the mix of German and English language within the document. It is due to the initial use for oral transmission in an informal context.
- We are in the process of preparing a dedicated webpage covering all topics raised within this presentation that is easily adaptable and can grow over time as needed. Thus, we decided to keep the “ambulatory character” for now as is.
- You’ll find a few yellow asterisks  throughout the slides; they mark opportunities for immediate and non-bureaucratic help for Ukrainians
